CONTEXT

Atyenhenge Atherre Aboriginal Corporation (AAAC) has been representing the community of Ltyentye Apurte (Santa Teresa) on Eastern Arrernte Country for more than a decade. Made up of 12 board members, including nine elected by the community to represent them and three non-member directors, their mission revolves around amplifying the community's voice, strengthening leadership, preserving culture, fostering prosperity, and ensuring a safe and healthy environment.

In 2023, AAAC developed a Strategic Plan that outlines its direction from 2023 to 2028. The Strategic Plan was crafted with extensive input from the board and the local community, emphasising the importance of local decision-making. The plan champions investment in five key areas: Economic Development, Health and Community Wellbeing, Infrastructure and Assets, Organisational Governance and Sustainability, and Culture and Heritage.

The Northern Territory Government duly acknowledges AAAC's priorities in reinforcing and expanding upon its decadelong accomplishments. This Local Decision-Making (LDM) Agreement aspires to support AAAC's vision for a resilient, self-reliant future for the Ltyentye Apurte community, bestowing upon AAAC and its members the authority to determine service delivery models that are most suitable for their community.

The Department of Chief Minister and Cabinet Central Australia played a pivotal role in facilitating the consultation and development of the LDM Agreement, with support from the Northern Territory-based non-profit organisation, Circulanation. This LDM agreement spans a two-year period, from 2024 to 2026, aligning with the short-term (1-2 years) priorities identified in AAAC's Strategic Plan for 2023-2028. Subsequent to this plan, the involved parties will reconvene to formalise a new Implementation Plan.

By signing the LDM Agreement, all parties involved demonstrate their commitment to transparent, consultative, and accountable implementation of these actions. These efforts align with overarching Local Decision-Making guiding principles, including self-determination, flexible and place-based approaches, co-design, and community control, furthering AAAC's mission to empower and elevate the Ltyentye Apurte community.
